RAILROADS AID

Wednesday.

The injunction suits against the railroads and express companies were not intended as charges against the carriers, but as proceedings to bring about order in a situation which was confusing and which prevented a proper inspection of liquor shipments into Oklahoma City and county. The time given the officers to inspect these shipments is the same as that fixed by Judge Cotterell in a recent order in the federal court, and such as to give the officers opportunity to make inspections and to prevent the bootleggers from rushing the carriers while

Inspection is on.

"We believe the carriers will find the orders workable and entirely satisfactory to them and to all others except the bootleggers."

According to attorneys for the Frisco, which together with all the railroads and express companies in the county were restrained from handling illegal shipments of liquor by Judge Hayson's order, there seems to be at present, at least, no disposition on the part of the carriers to combat the hearing for a temporary injunction, which is to be held Aug. 30, and which will seek to enjoin the companies from carrying on business now prevented by the restraining order.

BUYING TRACTORS

Recent Show at Enid and Ready Crop Money Causing Farmers to Make Investments in Machinery

Reports that have been received by the state agricultural department show that, following the Enid Tractor show, a lively demand for tractors has been created. Fifteen correspondents report a total of 65 tractors purchased as follows: Garfield County, 6; Sequoyah, 6; Hughes, 1; Greer, 6; Oologah, 8; Custer, 2; Harper, 3; Tillman, 2; Garfield (where show was held), 1x; Major, 1; Pontotoc, 2; McIntosh, 2; Cleveland, 6; Johnson, 4; Jefferson, 3.

While only a partial report, it shows the trend to investment of crop machinery. However, not all agricultural curiosities are limited as to the need for tractors. Judge Frank Hale is quoted as asserting that unless the farmer has 325 acres or more of land it is not good economy for him to expend $300 to $400 for a tractor.

CAUSES APPREHENSION

Some Fear Locally That Abnormal Rainfall Will Occur When Gulf Storm Reaches This Latitude

The government forecaster of rain for today said Thursday in Oklahoma City is causing much apprehension here, following the reports of the terrific floods which are following the wake of the gulf storm which first touched Oklahoma City this morning. The full violence of the storm is not expected to reach here before Thursday.

It was reported over eastern Texas this morning. The tropical rain storm which swept over Ft. Worth measured 5.12 inches. At Dallas 4.28 inches fell.

No weather report has yet been received from Galveston. The government report indicates that Oklahoma City will receive the extreme western side of the storm disturbance.

You really must impress upon John the folly of his line of action." "What's the use? He won't pay the least attention to me, he'll only listen to fools now." (After a short pause) "You speak to him."
